OVERVIEW

Cistercian Preparatory School (Cistercian), founded in 1962, is an all-boys school rooted in the life and spirit of Catholic monasticism. It offers talented and motivated young men (grades 5-12) of all faiths challenging programs within a supportive community. An eight-year, all-advanced honors curriculum that is identical and shared for all 40-48 students of a given Form (grade), the intense communal nature of the pace, depth, and breadth of the academic program allows each student to develop his strengths while discovering that his greatest individual success will be found in applying his talents for the sake of others. Cistercian is located on 82 acres of woodland on Hwy. 114 near The University of Dallas and adjacent to Las Colinas; the school is accredited by ISAS (Independent School Association of the Southwest).
